

A systematic, collective editorial process

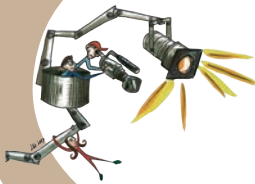

1 Topics chosen by an editorial board composed of health professionals

2 Each article's content planned collectively

3 Exhaustive documentary research led by specialised, in-house teams

4 First draft written by one specialised editor and carefully reviewed by another

5 Section head reviews text and documentary materials

6 Article is sent to a multidisciplinary review panel composed of 10-40 health professionals

7 Rewrite, based on review panel's comments

8 Section head oversees careful checking of text and all references

9 Layout, final editing and proofreading

10 Editor-in-Chief signs off on the collective effort
